I am writing to express my strong interest in the Corporate Treasury - GCLA Analyst position in London. With 2.5 years of experience at Morgan Stanley's Prime Brokerage division and a Master's degree in Investment & Risk Finance (Distinction), I bring a solid foundation in liquidity operations, cash management, and financial risk that aligns closely with the demands of a Global Cash and Liquidity Analytics role.

At Morgan Stanley, I developed deep expertise in trade settlement, daily reconciliation, and post-trade operations-skills that directly translate to monitoring cash flows, managing collateral movements, and ensuring accurate liquidity reporting within a corporate treasury function. I routinely worked across multiple asset classes, liaising with counterparties and internal stakeholders to resolve breaks and ensure seamless end-of-day positioning. My experience with corporate actions further sharpened my attention to detail and understanding of how market events impact funding and liquidity.

I am highly proficient in Excel/VBA, Bloomberg, and Refinitiv Eikon, and I am comfortable building analytical tools to support treasury decision-making. My academic grounding in risk finance means I understand the regulatory and strategic context in which treasury teams operate, including Basel III liquidity metrics and stress-testing frameworks.

I am eager to return to financial services in a role that leverages my operational expertise and analytical capabilities. I would require Skilled Worker visa sponsorship and am happy to discuss this further. I would welcome the opportunity to contribute to your treasury team and am available for an interview at your convenience.

Thank you for considering my application - I look forward to hearing from you.
