Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Derivatives Operations Analyst role at Wellington Management. With experience in middle office operations at Morgan Stanley, including trade settlement, reconciliation, and risk management across global markets, I am well-positioned to support your cleared and bilateral derivatives operations.

My background includes processing daily margin-related activities, managing reconciliations between internal systems and external counterparties, and resolving discrepancies under tight deadlines. I am proficient in Excel and Python (pandas, numpy), and have built automation tools that reduced manual processing time and improved accuracy — skills directly relevant to your emphasis on process improvement and efficiency.

I appreciate Wellington's encouragement that candidates who don't meet 100% of qualifications should still apply. While my derivatives experience has been primarily in equities and fixed income, I am a fast learner with strong foundational knowledge and am eager to expand into cleared derivatives, collateral management, and the broader OTC space. The hybrid work structure and collaborative team environment are exactly the setting where I thrive.

Kind regards,

Nidhi Shetty
